NOTES CONNECTED WITH G.O., No. 962 I., DATED 8TH SEPTEMBER 1906.

[SUBJECT.—Periyár extension scheme.]

It is proposed to continue the investigation referred to in G.O., No. 743 I., dated 3rd July 1902, which was only partially carried out in 1903 and then stopped.

The file of this office does not show that there was any further correspondence with Travancore after the receipt of Resident's letter embodied in the Government Order quoted above.

With a view to avoiding any friction with Travancore, it will, I think, be desirable to inform the Resident that we wish to continue the investigation of the Paradise or Pambiar river and its catchment.

The original request appears to have been sent by Political; so, if they agree as to the necessity, will they kindly draft the letter to the Resident.

I do not know anything about this work on the Paradise river. Apparently it involves a path being cut and levels taken. The Public Works Department officer who may accompany the Forest officials in inspecting the Periyár catchment area in September or October is, I presume, merely going to assist the Forest people with his advice.

The Paradise river examination seems to have some different end in view altogether, what, I don't understand. Will Public Works Department kindly let us see the orders about the Paradise river and say exactly what they want done. We can then address the Travancore Darbar on the subject.

PUBLIC WORKS (IRRIGATION) DEPARTMENT.

The question is different from that of the preservation of forests. The supply of the Periyár river being somewhat insufficient, in bad years, for the irrigable area, it was proposed to have investigations made to find out whether the catchment area of the lake could not be increased by diverting all or a portion of the waters of a neighbouring river known as the Paradise or Pambiar.

It is not very clear why investigation was stopped except that the subordinate in charge was badly wanted elsewhere; it is also doubtful if he discovered the best possible line; the forest is very dense and observations are difficult to make. The proposal has been brought forward again at the instance of the Inspector-General of Irrigation.
